

Client prep means hours in the filings

ONE ANNUAL REPORT

340,000

characters in a single NVIDIA annual report, read by hand before a client call.

Slow

Check the price, then read long filings.

Inconsistent

Every advisor reads and summarizes differently.

Warning signs slip past

Auditor issues or heavy insider selling.

HOW IT WORKS

Two workflows, one sourced answer

Question → Understand, pick workflow(s) → #1 and/or #2 → Sourced answer

Remembers the company

Workflow #1 · Stock quote

- 1 Company name
- 2 Find the official ticker
- 3 Fetch 6 months of daily prices
- 4 Calculate price, 6-month change, high and low

Output: stock price + one-paragraph summary

Numbers are calculated, never generated by AI.

Workflow #2 · SEC filings

- 1 Company name
- 2 Find it in the SEC's official list
- 3 Read 4 report types at once: annual, quarterly, current events, insider trades
- 4 Keep what matters; skip boilerplate
- 5 Check red flags with fixed rules
- 6 Pull key financials from official SEC data

Output: one combined summary

Real answers from both workflows
